BAWDY HOUSES CLOSED UP.

Council Annexes District Near Cemetery and Inmates Promptly Move.

CITY BUYS TWO LOTS.

Last of a Dozen or More Prostitutes Left Monday and There Is Rejoicing.

The bawdy houses that have for many years been located near Hope-well cemetery, just outside of the city, are now all vacant. The last of the inmates moved out Monday afternoon.

About three months ago an ordinance annexing to the city the territory devoted to these houses was submitted to the council by Mayor Meacham and defeated by a vote of 4 to 3. Since that time some of the councilmen have changed their views and last Friday night the same ordinance was again submitted and passed by a vote of 5 to 2.

The territory to be incorporated contains about 4 acres of ground in addition to 15 or 20 acres within the cemetery. Upon the 4 acres referred to are three houses of five or six rooms each. One of these is north of a road separating it from the cemetery and is owned by Mrs. Lula Wells Mercer, now of Nashville. Two other houses south of this road and situated between the cemetery and the L. & N. Railroad were owned one by Mrs. Mercer and the other by Mrs. Nettie Wilson Tutt, of Memphis. Until about two weeks ago both were used as bawdy houses. One became vacant since the first of the month and Monday the furniture was all moved out of the other, after the occupants learned of the "annexation ordinance."

The owners of the two houses at once expressed a willingness to sell the property adjoining the cemetery to the city at a price much lower than they paid for it and yesterday the trade was closed and the city purchased one house for $1,000 and the other for $750, with about three acres of land that extends the unoccupied cemetery property to the L. & N. Railroad right of way on the eastern side. This addition will some day make one of the most beautiful portions of the cemetery. The houses will be utilized and the rentals will more than pay the interest on the investment. There is a railroad frontage of several hundred feet that the city could if desired sell for manufacturing purposes and realize a good profit, but this is not contemplated. The property is needed by the city and the improvements alone are worth the price paid. Above all, the deal forever removes from the cemetery its immoral surroundings. The house not bought by the city is also for sale and as it will be in the city it cannot be sold for other than a lawful purpose.

It is to be hoped that the work done by the council will meet the approval of the people. The citizens of that section of the city, after enduring the proximity of these houses of ill fame for fifteen years, are greatly rejoiced that they have been cleaned out and are gone forever. Some of the women left the city. Two or three now occupy a small house near the Water Co.'s stand-pipe and there are two houses with seven occupants near the eastern limits of the city.

TOBACCO BEDS ARE SCRAPED.

Lawlessness Resorted to And Bad Feeling Is Aroused.

ANARCHY WILL NOT DO.

Law Abiding Citizens To a Man Will Condemn Such Criminal Methods.

A new phase was given to the Association Tobacco movement when two or three of the largest planters in the county, who do not belong to the Association, found their plant beds scraped of plants and destroyed yesterday morning.

L. L. Leavell had 450 yards scraped, about half he had, by parties who went to the beds in two rubber tired buggies.

J. F. Garnett, a few miles away, had 500 yards destroyed that belonged to Gent Sanders, a cropper. There were tracks of a rubber tired vehicle and of several men about the bed.

J. T. Garnett, who has been a member of the Association for three years, also had one small bed of 150 yards destroyed, near the road. His cropper yesterday threw up his job and left.

Mr. Leavell and Mr. Garnett are not members of the association though it is said the former had about decided to join. Yesterday he offered $500 reward for the capture and identification of the guilty parties and E. H. Armstrong, of this city left with bloodhounds yesterday to work up the case.

This is the first time any trouble of this kind has been reported in this county and such methods cannot be so strongly condemned.

Assistant Manager Jno. E. Garner, Mr. Jon Allen of Springfield, were in the city yesterday enroute from Virginia. They both desired to be quoted as disapproving and condemning such methods in the strongest terms and both declared that Col. Ewing thought as they did about such violence and had denounced similar outrages in scathing terms.

If this violence is the work of Association men, they are treading on dangerous ground. If it be done by non-association men to bring the organization into disrepute, then the Association members should assist

SUN DRIES CHINA'S SALT.

Primitive Evaporating Works in Use in the Orient Since Marco Polo's Day.

Many tons of impure salt are made each year at different points on the coast of North China, extending from Tientsin to Shan-hai-kuan and Nienchwang. The methods employed are the same in each place and the same have been in use certainly from the time of Marco Polo's famous journey through eastern China.

The salt is made by the evaporation of sea water. The water is pumped into the evaporating basins by wind power and evaporated by the heat of the sun. Extending many miles each way from Tientsin the coast is nearly level, and only a few inches or feet above high tide. On this flat coast are the salt works. The evaporating basins are made on the flats and have much the appearance of innumerable tennis courts of great size.

They are separated from each other by small ridges of mud about eight inches high. The bottoms of the basins are made level and hard rolled with a stone roller. The basins are filled to a depth of three inches with sea water, which is evaporated by the heat of the sun in from one to three days, leaving a coating of salt on the bottom. This is carefully scraped into a pile and after re-rolling the bottom more water is pumped in.

These basins are located about two feet above sea level and in groups, so as to be served by a central pump. The flats are cut in all directions by small canals, giving each group water connection with the main salt yards at the railway station on the river. The salt, as fast as it is made, is shoveled into small boats, which are pushed through the canals to the main yards, where it is thrown into great heaps and covered with mats, waiting to be sold and packed for the Tientsin market.

RELATION OF FIRE AND AIR

Each Is Necessary for the Life of the Other—Action of Other Materials.

The intimate relation between fire and air was early recognized, seeing that experience soon taught that air was necessary for fire. The experiment of burning a candle in a closed vessel, now so familiar to every school boy, was the first demonstration of the influence of a blast of air on a furnace had been probably noticed from a very remote period. By some it was affirmed to be the food of fire, while by others the same belief was embodied in the phrase: "Air nourishes fire."

Again, it was long ago observed that niter, a substance well known to the chemical philosophers of the past, could produce intense ignition. It was hence inferred that, since niter possessed this property, it necessarily followed that the two substances resembled each other in composition. According to Robert Boyle, the air contained "volatile niter," while Lord Bacon held that air contained a "volatile, crude and wild spirit," and thunder and lightning were supposed to be due to the presence of minute particles of this niter diffused through air.

The important bearing of such observations is due to the fact that oxygen gas, which is one of the chief constituents of air and the one to which it owes its power of supporting combustion also forms the largest elementary constituent of niter, and is likewise the source of power possessed by that body of supporting combustion.

The action of heat on metals in causing them to lose their metallic luster had also not escaped notice, and Cardan, a philosopher who lived during the sixteenth century, in noticing the increase in weight that lead undergoes when heated in air, attributed it to the gas in the air, which feeds flame and which rekindles a body presenting an ignited point.

RAVAGES OF WHITE ANT.

These Insects Seen Intended to Plague Human Race—No Method of Extermination.

"If ever a pest existed to plague the human family white ants fill the bill, said Richard Douglas, of Bulawayo, South Africa, to a representative of the Washington Post. "There is nothing they do not devour except corrugated iron. They will eat your shoes, your hat, your trousers, and I've had them utterly destroy a fine leather valise. An adobe hut offers no resistance to their invasion, and only hard bricks resist their attacks."

"The foundations of houses are protected with tin to keep them out. They are bred in myriads by a queen ant, which is fully three inches long, and which is estimated to produce 500,000 of her progeny each day. The government offers a substantial cash bonus for each queen destroyed. There has as yet been found no successful method of exterminating them, although great hope is had of a new invention, a machine that will scatter fumes of sulphuric acid in the ranks of the devouring armies."

SQUIRRELS' WINTER STORES

How Very Little—Chipmunk's Preparation for Cold Weather—Reds Like Chipmunk.

In New England red squirrels do not put by great hoards of any kind for winter use. When a Maine red squirrel has filled itself with acorns and beech nuts it will hide a few here and there—under leaves, in hollow logs, in cracks of lifted trees and among stone-heaps.

An average red squirrel, having the run of an oak grove in the fall of the year, may in the course of two weeks hide away from two to four quarts of acorns, though they will be in perhaps 20 different places, and in no instance which we have noted has any nut been shelled.

The squirrel which plans a hoard of nuts and makes deliberate preparations for winter is the little chipmunk, or striped squirrel, which seeks winter quarters soon after heavy frosts and which remains in hiding all winter. The chipmunks often hide as many as two quarts of shelled hickory nuts in one place. Their storehouses are, as a rule, under the ground in sloping and sandy soil, the burrows having been dug with true engineering skill, so that no freshet can drown them out.

There is a colony of chipmunks among the mounds of graves in the cemetery on Indian Island. Old Town, near Bangor, which numbers nearly 100 individuals, and it speaks well for the kindness of the Indian children to know that the little workers are permitted to live so near to human habitations, for the Indian cottages are on all sides.

It is believed that most observing woodsmen will say that the red squirrels of this vicinity seldom make large caches of provisions for winter consumption, and never shell the stored nuts. In fact, the red species have no need to pay much heed to such matters, as they are abroad and active in the coldest days of winter, as much as they are in mid-summer, so precautions for food are not demanded. As the red squirrel subsists for a good part of the year upon the cones of pines and spruces, which hang to the limbs, they do not care how deep or hard the snow may be, feeling secure in finding all the food they want among the treetops.

PLANTS WHICH DISAPPEAR.

Shrubs of Southern Mountains That Go for No Known Reason—Lost for Century.

In the southern mountains certain shrubs have been lost for nearly a century, and rediscovered by chance in a different locality, thriving and abundant. No one knows the cause of their disappearance, by what means they were removed, or why they prefer their new habitat, says the New York Herald.

One curious feature is that these vanished flowers, or shrubs, are not as a rule insignificant plants that one might overlook. On the contrary, the beautiful variety of sumach named after Michaela a French botanist, which was lost so many years and has only recently been found again, bore great panicles of creamy blossoms first, and later on thick clusters of velvety and crimson fruit.

Its leaves also turned a rich crimson in autumn, so that it seemed to flame and glow on the mountain sides.

Another lost plant, also a shrub, the eliottia, was a striking beauty. It belonged to the heath family and had long spikes of white blossoms, each blossom shaped like a St. Andrew's cross, in vivid contrast with its lustrous green foliage. It has now vanished as completely as if it had never existed.

Some of the plants were fortunately collected in 1878 by a gentleman near Augusta, Ga., so that it has disappeared in less than a quarter of a century. No reason is known for this loss either to botanists or the people among whom it once bloomed.

For more than twenty years Mr. J. B. Massey, of 3322 Clinton St., Minneapolis, Minn., was tortured by sciatica. The pain and suffering which he endured during this time is beyond comprehension. Nothing gave him any permanent relief until he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application of that liniment relieved the pain and made sleep and rest possible. He says that one bottle has effected a permanent cure. Mr. Massey relates his experience for the benefit of others who may be similarly afflicted. He is troubled with sciatica or rheumatism, why not try a 25-cent bottle of Pain Balm and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain. For sale by L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up-to-date druggists of Hopkinsville.

MR. FRED SCHNELL

Pe-ru-na a Necessity in the Home.

J. B. Alexander, Publisher of the "Fruit and Floral Guide, A Magazine of Horticulture," published in Hartford City, Ind., says of Peruna:

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and head for over ten years. I was treated by many physicians, but grew worse until I was seldom able to go out in cold weather.

"About one year ago I was advised to try Peruna, which I did, and I am now entirely well of the catarrh.

"Peruna is a necessity in our home. With the first symptoms of a cold we use it, and are never afflicted with catarrh.

"I advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to it as a catarrh medicine."—J. B. Alexander.

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Remedy.

If Peruna will cure catarrh in one place, it will cure it in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy.

MR. GUSTAV M. SCHMIDT

Pe-ru-na Always on Hand.

Mr. Fred Schmidt, Lakeview, Erie Co., N. Y., writes:

"I had been a sufferer for more than thirty years with catarrh of the intestines. I had used a great deal of medicine to no avail, so I decided to try Peruna.

"I have now used thirteen bottles and can give you the joyful tidings that I have no more trouble. I always keep Peruna on hand."—Fred Schmidt.

The people generally are very much misinformed as to the nature of catarrh. Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat. Later we sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bladder. Seldom, if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organs.

It is not because these organs are not subject to catarrh, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

MR. HENRY SCHROEDER

Pe-ru-na a Household Friend.

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Route 2, Napoleon, O., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail.

"I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured.

"I recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease. It is my household friend."—Henry Schroeder.

A Farmer's Talk to Farmers.

Before Dr. Hartman began the study of medicine he was a farmer boy. He was brought up on a farm in Southern Pennsylvania.

He belonged to that industrial, successful class of farmers known as the Pennsylvania Dutch, the best farmers in the world.

It was here that he early learned the lesson of pulling obnoxious things out by the roots.

Dr. Hartman's Method of Treating Catarrh.

Naturally, when he began the study of medicine his mind turned instinctively toward the removing of causes. He could not content himself with doctoring symptoms any more than his enterprising father could have contented himself by pulling off the tops of weeds to eradicate them from the soil.

The Doctor turned his attention early to the science of removing the cause of diseases, believing that obnoxious symptoms would disappear if the cause of the disease was removed.

In other words, Dr. Hartman applied the common sense of the practical farmer to medicine, and after much experimentation Peruna was compounded.

The sensible farmer does not think of cutting off the tops of weeds to kill them. He pulls them up by the roots.

Dr. Hartman Interested in Farming. Notwithstanding Dr. Hartman's busy professional career, he still continues to be interested in farming. He is the owner and manager of one of the largest farms in the State of Ohio, with several thousand acres of the best tilled land in the Middle West, and with hundreds of the best blooded percheron horses ever imported or raised in this country.

Dr. Hartman relies upon Peruna entirely in case of sickness in his own family.

MR. GEO. H. THOMPSON

At Work on the Farm—Praises Pe-ru-na.

Geo. H. Thompson, Raleigh, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I had been afflicted with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken bad every spring and summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good. I then took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had got where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pains, had lost in weight and could not do anything.

"I began taking your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 130 pounds, but after taking 17 bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 180 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all of the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."—Geo. H. Thompson.

Manalin is a modern, up-to-date laxative, pleasant to take, mild in action and sure to overcome constipation. It is an efficient cathartic for adults and children take it readily. Full directions accompany each bottle.

Contest For Gold Medal Offered By Trustees of the City Public Schools

There will be an open session of the Henry Clay Debating Society on the night of Tuesday June 5th at the tabernacle. There will be an oratorical contest and the following young gentlemen will take part. Subject of debate—"Resolved, There should be a law restricting the sale and manufacture of patent medicines." Affirmative: James Nourse, Thomas Smith and James Breathitt. Negative: Leslie Henderson, Lawson Faxon and Thomas Earl. Judges to be selected from the audience.

The argument on the above subject will be followed by orations by Frank Danney and Raymond Tichnor.

The board of trustees of the city public schools has offered a gold medal for the successful contestant in both debate and oratory. The speeches in the debate and oratorical contest are to be original and as the young gentlemen have been devoting some time in preparing themselves it will be hard for the judges to determine as to which has the most merit.

"The Little Quartette" will be present and render several selections. Everybody is invited to attend these exercises and bring their friends. The small admission fee of ten cents will be charged and the proceeds will be devoted to paying tabernacle and other incidental expenses.

A MOUNTAIN CLIMB

ASCENT OF THE "MOUNTAINS OF THE MOON."

Duke of the Abruzzi to Make Attempt—His Former Success—Present Undertaking Hazardous and Dangerous.

In the heart of mysterious Africa uprear mysterious peaks, a mountain range that has witnessed a secret from curious man, though many attempts have been made to penetrate its secret places, interpret the adventures undertaking this mission. We speak of Ruwenzori range, in Central Africa, up in the northeastern Congo Free State. When Stanley was leading the expedition for the relief of Emin Pasha, a porter one day called out to the explorer as they were making their way in the torrid land. "O, master, see the mountains covered with salt." Looking in the direction indicated, Stanley for the first time beheld the mighty ranges of mountains which extend both sides of the equator. Later he found that torrents from these mountains add to the volume of the Nile, and believed here was Ptolemy's Mountains of the Moon, wherein lay hid the sources of the Nile. It is these mountains a famous explorer of to-day is now making ready to assault. This explorer is the duke of the Abruzzi, who, though son of an ex-king, is best known for his success in the field of exploration. The duke attracted much attention in 1897 by making the first ascent of Mount St. Elias. His north pole expedition, which set forth in 1899, attained the northernmost latitude as yet reached. It is a long distance from Alaska and the arctic regions to equatorial Africa and the Ruwenzori range, for which he is soon to set forth.

No little of the hazard of this new enterprise lies in the extremes of temperature through which the party must pass. But let us take the journey in successive trips, accompanying the duke on the various stages of the trip to the top of the Mountains of the Moon. The base of the Ruwenzori range may be reached without difficulty, a journey by rail from Mombasa to Port Florence on Albert-Nyanza, then a steamer in a day's time brings one to Entebbe, or Mengo, on the north shore of the lake. Here a caravan will be got together, and in a ten-days' march the party will be able to reach the mountains. As an interesting article in the New York Times commenting on the expedition, says: "It is expected that not less than 200 well-disciplined men, such as may be procured in neighboring Uganda, under the supervision of a score of white superintendents, will be required for the arduous task. The work will cost more than to climb one of the higher Himalayas, and unless the explorer leaves much for his successors to discover, the bill will foot up a total that would exhaust any but a princely purse."

Before the men are reached the party must push its way in tropical heat and amid tropical luxuriance of vegetation, and this portion of the journey may prove the most trying. A way must be hewn through the bamboo forest for the porters with their loads, and the advance made in a steaming atmosphere, rainfall here being very heavy. A former explorer found his thermometer registered 115 degrees at an altitude of 5,000 feet. Deep bog lands lie between 9,000 feet and the snow line, bogs in which a man sinks to his knees at every step. Then just before the snows are reached they urprise a rocky wall; to get beyond this line long detours must be made. Now the men enter into the frigid zone, and here will probably spend several weeks in their endeavor to scale the chief peak and procure a map of the upper regions. The duke of the Abruzzi will not be at the disadvantage of early explorers who were not experts in snow ascents.

The highest ascent at any point in Africa is Kilimanjaro, 19,330 feet; the peaks of Ruwenzori have been variously estimated; Stanley held to be between 17,000 and 18,000 feet; Johnson put the figures considerably above, at 20,000 or 22,000.

Six early explorers tried in vain to do what the Italian is now attempting: Lieut. Stairs, Scott Elliot, Sir Harry Johnson, Dr. Stuhlman, the missionary Fisher, and David, the naturalist. In about three months the Duke of Abruzzi expects to be in Central Africa and begin the ambitious undertaking.

He knew.

"There's one thing I don't understand," said the pleasant-faced lady, "and that is why we hear so much fun poked at the mother-in-law, while nothing of the kind is ever said of the father-in-law."

"That's easily enough explained," said the young man who knew. "The father-in-law is no joke."—Detroit Free Press.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do this for you.

They watch the kidneys and cure them when they're sick. Hopkinsville testimony proves it. J. W. Tunks, of 312 W. Seventh St., who is employed at M. C. Foster's planing mill, says: "The condition of my health was such as to cause me a great deal of worry about my future. I had an almost constant aching across the small of my back and the kidney secretions were highly colored, excessive and irregular, in fact, the disorder was so pronounced that it had been said I bordered on diabetes. I also suffered at times with indigestion which caused me a great deal of distress. At one time I was scarcely able to do any work at all for nearly a year. I doctored and tried various remedies but nothing did me any permanent good until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at L. A. Johnson's drug store. I had them only a few days when I noticed a change for the better and by the time I had finished the box I found they had brought about so decided an improvement in my condition as to convince me of their real worth and I am more than thankful for the relief that I have received."

FROM THE PREFACE

"In every situation General Lee was a great, a dominant figure. The character of Lee has been somewhat lost sight of in the study of his career, but it fairly glows with all that is high and noble and true. The Bayard of the South exhibits the characteristics of the Christian gentleman to the full. This is a personality to be studied, to be followed, to be loved. In his greatness and in his simplicity he is as enduring inspiration to true manhood for all America—the world even."

The Patriots

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY
Author of "The Southerners," etc.

A War-time story in all its aspects. It opens with a chapter in the life of Lee, woven around the hour in which he decided to take up arms for Virginia and the Southland.

There is a dual love story—a vein of the most tender and sweetest sentiment running through the pages.
